DEPUTY CLERK

ORDER DISMISSING APPEAL

In this proper person appeal, appellant seeks to challenge a district court order denying appellant's objections to the court master's recommendations to extend a temporary protection order and to find appellant in contempt for violating the temporary protection order. The order expired by operation of law on May 23, 2012, rendering this appeal moot, since the order no longer is in effect. See Personhood Nevada v. Bristol, 126 Nev. ___, ___, 245 P.3d 572, 574 (2010) (dismissing moot appeal because "[t]his court's duty is not to render advisory opinions but, rather, to resolve actual controversies"). As the challenged order has expired, this appeal is moot, and we therefore

ORDER this appeal DISMISSED.
